

Graylock Digital — Cabinet Maker Landing Page Specification

Route: /websites-for-cabinet-makers

Primary conversion: Request a free custom homepage demo.

Secondary conversion: Scroll to see how the demo works or view the featured cabinet-maker project once provided.

Reference framework: Reuse the well-driller page's conversion sequence, dark visual rhythm, card system, image-backed bands, orange handwritten emphasis, offer framing, and mobile CTA behavior. ¹

Primary message: Your cabinets are custom. Your website should be too.

1. Build Objective

Build a dedicated cabinet-maker page for custom cabinet shops, millwork companies, kitchen specialists, and design-forward woodworking businesses. It must speak to owners whose actual work is premium, detail-driven, and highly visual, but whose current website may look generic, fail to show the quality of the portfolio, or make it difficult for homeowners, builders, and designers to start the right conversation.

The page must not read like a generic contractor page. It should feel as considered as a high-end kitchen or built-in: restrained, premium, warm, and confidence-building. Use the same high-conversion framework as the well-driller page, but replace field-work language with craftsmanship, project proof, local visibility, design consultations, and quote requests.

The page should reinforce the sales conversation in this order:

We noticed your work deserves a stronger digital presence → your current site may not show the quality of the work → Graylock builds a better portfolio, trust, and inquiry experience → you see a free custom direction before paying → Graylock builds and launches the approved website.

2. Global Page Requirements

Use the Graylock header, footer, splash experience, dark charcoal/black visual system, white condensed uppercase headings, orange CTA buttons, and orange handwritten accent treatment already present on the well-driller page. Keep the global header CTA label consistent with this page:

REQUEST MY FREE CUSTOM DEMO

All primary CTAs route to:

```
/get-started?industry=cabinet-making&intent=free_demo&utm_source=cabinet_maker_landing&utm_medium=site_cta&utm_content=[placement]

Use the following `utm_content` values: `hero` , `process` , `portfolio` , `pricing` , and `final_cta` .

Do not use stock imagery of generic office meetings, random laptops, or low-end cabinet showrooms. Use authentic-feeling imagery of premium kitchens, finished cabinetry, shop craftsmanship, cabinet installation, material samples, homeowners reviewing designs, and project photography. Use image backgrounds with a 62–76% black mask when white copy overlays the image; do not bake the mask into source imagery.

3. Information Architecture

Build the page in this exact order.

Order	Section	Conversion job
1	Hero	Make the custom-cabinet-maker promise clear and earn the free demo request.
2	Who We Work With	Help the right owner recognize their current website problem.
3	Three Goals	State the concrete outcome Graylock wants to create.
4	What a Better Website Does	Explain the portfolio, trust, local-search, and inquiry system.
5	Free Demo Process	Lower risk by proving Graylock works before charging the build fee.
6	Featured Cabinet-Maker Project	Use the forthcoming live project as proof, not just a device mockup.

7	Pricing + Guarantee	Explain the waived-build-fee offer and recurring support simply.
8	FAQ	Resolve common questions and qualify the prospect.
9	Final CTA	Convert after the full page story.

4. Section-by-Section Copy and Build Direction

Section 1 — Hero

Purpose

The first screen must immediately feel written for a cabinet maker. It must recognize that the business sells visible craftsmanship, large-ticket projects, and trust—not a commodity service.

YOUR CABINETS ARE CUSTOM.

YOUR WEBSITE SHOULD BE TOO.

Body copy

We build custom cabinet-maker websites that showcase the quality of your work, earn trust before the first consultation, and turn project interest into real design and quote requests.

Reassurance line

Free custom direction. No generic template. No obligation after you see the demo.

Four proof items below the CTA

1. Built for local search visibility
2. Project galleries that sell your craftsmanship
3. Design + quote requests delivered to your inbox
4. Built to look exceptional on mobile

Hero visual direction

Reserve the left 52–58% of the hero for copy. Place a cabinet-maker device mockup in the right third, similar in scale and placement to the well-driller hero. The desktop device must show a believable custom cabinetry site above the fold: a premium finished kitchen, a strong location/service hook, two CTAs, and a trust bar. The phone displays the responsive version.

Featured-site placeholder: Use [CABINET_MAKER_HERO_DEVICE_ASSET] until the new sample project is available. When supplied, use its real homepage on the laptop and phone screens; do not fabricate brand names, testimonials, credentials, or project awards.

Use a dark architectural background with subtle topo texture and a warm cabinet-material detail—walnut grain, stone, or muted brass—but do not let background texture compete with the device visual.

Section 2 — Who We Work With

Purpose

Let cabinet makers self-identify with the problem without insulting their business. This section should make the page feel like a targeted follow-up from someone who noticed a real gap.

Eyebrow

WHO WE WORK WITH

H2

WE WORK WITH CABINET MAKERS WHO...

Create three dark cards with premium cabinet-maker imagery or tightly cropped material details. Use orange line accents; no generic agency imagery.

Card 1

Title

HAVE WORK THAT DESERVES A BETTER SHOWROOM.

Body

You build custom kitchens, built-ins, and spaces homeowners remember. But your current website does not make that level of craftsmanship obvious before a prospect ever calls.

Image direction

A finished custom kitchen or built-in with exceptional joinery, natural lighting, and no visible stock-watermark aesthetic.

Card 2

Title

ARE LOSING THE PROJECT STORY IN A GENERIC PORTFOLIO.

Body

A few scattered photos are not enough for a high-consideration purchase. Homeowners, builders, and designers need to see the work, understand the process, and picture what you can create for them.

Image direction

A cabinet maker reviewing project photos, samples, drawings, or a design render in a clean shop or studio.

Card 3

Title

NEED MORE OF THE RIGHT PROJECT INQUIRIES.

Body

The website should help the right homeowner or trade partner understand your services, service area, project fit, and next step—before they submit a request.

Image direction

A high-end homeowner reviewing cabinetry plans or a clear consultation-request interaction on a phone/tablet.

Closing line

If your work is exceptional but your website is not helping prove it, you are exactly who we can help.

Section 3 — Three Goals. One Better Website.

Purpose

Mirror the well-driller page's strongest image-backed section. This is the strategic promise, not a long service list.

Layout

Use a full-width close or medium photo of a cabinet maker installing, adjusting, or reviewing fine cabinetry. Apply a black mask in CSS. Place the heading and three equal cards on top of the image. Use the orange handwritten line at the bottom.

THREE GOALS. ONE BETTER WEBSITE.

H2

WHAT WE WILL DO FOR YOU.

Intro

We are not building another generic contractor website. We are building a cabinet-maker website designed to make your craftsmanship clear, elevate your reputation, and help the right projects find you.

Goal 1

Title

MAKE YOUR CRAFTSMANSHIP IMPOSSIBLE TO IGNORE.

Body

We turn your best kitchens, built-ins, and finished spaces into a portfolio that feels as custom as the work itself—so the quality of your business is obvious before the first consultation.

Goal 2

Title

ELEVATE YOUR WEBSITE. ELEVATE YOUR REPUTATION.

Body

Your website should reflect the precision, professionalism, and care behind every project. We make it easier for homeowners, builders, and designers to see why your shop is worth contacting.

Goal 3

Title

HELP THE RIGHT LOCAL PROJECTS FIND YOU.

Body

We structure the site around the cabinetry, kitchen, built-in, service-area, and project searches that matter locally—then give qualified visitors a clear path to ask about their project.

Handwritten orange accent

MORE CONSULTATIONS. BETTER PROJECTS. THAT' S THE JOB.

Do not promise rankings, number of leads, job value, or revenue. The language must remain outcome-oriented without guaranteeing an outcome.

Section 4 — What a Better Cabinet-Maker Website Does

Purpose

Move from the promise to tangible functionality. This section should show that Graylock understands how someone chooses a custom cabinet maker.

Eyebrow

WHAT WE DO

H2

WHEN SOMEONE IS INVESTING IN A CUSTOM SPACE, YOUR WEBSITE SHOULD MAKE THREE THINGS CLEAR:

Use a large type-only lead-in:

YOU BUILD THE KIND OF WORK THEY WANT.

YOU SERVE THEIR PROJECT AREA.

YOU ARE EASY TO START A CONVERSATION WITH.

Use [CABINET_MAKER_SQUARE_DEVICE_ASSET] on the left or right—replace with the forthcoming real project device mockup when supplied.

Feature list

Feature 1 — Project Galleries That Sell the Work

Show kitchens, built-ins, closets, bathroom vanities, and commercial or specialty work in a structure that makes every project easy to explore—not buried in a random photo folder.

Feature 2 — Trust Before the Consultation

Tell the story behind your shop: experience, process, materials, service area, reviews, craftsmanship, and the kind of projects you are built to take on.

Feature 3 — Clear Paths for Homeowners, Builders + Designers

Guide each visitor toward the right next step—request a consultation, ask about a remodel, share plans, upload inspiration, or start a quote request.

Feature 4 — Local Search Built Into the Foundation

Structure the website around the services, project types, communities, and questions people actually use when searching for custom cabinetry in your area.

Feature 5 — Inquiries Delivered Where You Need Them

Send consultation and quote requests to the designated email inbox or CRM with the details your team needs to begin the right conversation.

Feature 6 — Premium on Every Screen

The homeowner who saves your work on a phone should experience the same level of quality as the person reviewing your portfolio on a desktop.

Section 5 — Our Process: We Prove the Direction Before You Pay

Purpose

Reuse the current well-driller page's four-card process structure. This is the risk-reversal section and should remain clear, visual, and short.

Eyebrow

OUR PROCESS

H2

WE PROVE THE DIRECTION BEFORE YOU PAY A DOLLAR.

Intro

We do real strategic and design work first, so you can see what your new website could feel like before deciding whether Graylock is the right fit.

15-MINUTE DISCOVERY CALL

Body

A quick conversation about your work, ideal projects, service area, current site, and what you want your next website to do better.

Image direction

Card 2

Title

Body

We turn that input into a real homepage direction for your cabinet-making business—built around your work, your market, and the project inquiries you want more of.

Image direction

Owner reviewing a polished site concept on a desktop monitor in a studio or office.

Card 3

Title

YOU APPROVE THE DESIGN + DIRECTION

Body

If the strategy and design feel right, you give the direction the green light and we move ahead with the full build. If not, there is no obligation to move forward.

Image direction

Owner and office manager, designer, or partner reviewing a website or project board together.

Card 4

Title

BUILT + LAUNCHED ON YOUR DOMAIN

Body

We build the full website in an average of 7–10 business days after direction and core content are ready, then launch it live on your domain.

Image direction

Finished kitchen or cabinetry installation with the owner receiving a clear inquiry notification on a phone; no unreadable fake UI text.

Closing line

Your custom cabinet-maker website—built and launched in an average of 7–10 business days.

Do not promise a fixed launch date if photography, content, approvals, integrations, or client feedback are still outstanding.

Section 6 — The Standard We Build Toward: Featured Cabinet-Maker Project

Purpose

This is the cabinet-maker version of the well-driller page's portfolio proof section. Do not fill it with generic mockups once a real project is available.

Temporary pre-project state

Until the new cabinet-maker site is ready, do not fabricate a client case study. Use the following simple placeholder section only:

A CABINET-MAKER WEBSITE SHOULD LOOK AS CONSIDERED AS THE WORK BEHIND IT.

Section 7 — Pricing + Guarantee

Purpose

Follow the well-driller offer framework. This page is a sales follow-up tool, so price transparency should make the low-risk first step easy without turning the page into the generic Pricing page.

Eyebrow

Important language guardrails

- Do not imply that the local-market offer is automatic, permanent, or available to every cabinet maker.

- Do not say “exclusive” unless the controlling offer and sales process define the exact geographic rule.
 - Do not promise rankings, project volume, return on investment, or revenue.
 - Keep all guarantee, subscription, cancellation, and annual-plan language aligned with the active Pricing page and Terms of Service.

Section 8 — Cabinet-Maker FAQs

Use the existing accordion component. Keep answers concise, direct, and free of unsupported guarantees.

FAQ 1 — What exactly is the free custom demo?

It is a custom homepage direction built around your company, services, service area, portfolio, and the kinds of projects you want more of. It is not a generic template preview, and there is no cost or obligation to review it.

FAQ 2 — What happens after I request a demo?

We schedule a short conversation to understand your work, current website, service area, and goals. Then a Graylock founder walks you through the custom direction and answers the questions that matter to your business.

FAQ 3 — Do I have to decide on the call?

No. The demo exists so you can see something real before deciding whether Graylock is the right fit. There is no obligation to move forward after you review it.

FAQ 4 — Why did you contact my cabinet-making business?

We focus on established businesses with real craftsmanship and an online presence we believe can be made more useful. We do not send the same offer to every company.

FAQ 5 — Can my new website show kitchens, built-ins, closets, and other project types?

Yes. We structure your portfolio around the work you want prospects to explore—from custom kitchens and built-ins to closets, vanities, commercial millwork, or other specialty work—so visitors can quickly see whether you are the right fit.

FAQ 6 — Will the site help us get found on Google?

We build around clear services, service areas, project types, local-search fundamentals, and content structure so search engines and prospects can better understand what you do and where you work. No agency can ethically guarantee a specific ranking.

FAQ 7 — How do consultation and quote requests reach us?

We configure clear call actions and request forms so the details are sent directly to the email inbox or CRM your business designates.

FAQ 8 — Can we update the website with new projects over time?

Yes. Your monthly plan includes a defined update allowance, and we can help keep your project photography, services, and key information current. More extensive requests are scoped clearly before work begins.

FAQ 9 — What does the local-market offer mean?

In selected markets, Graylock may waive the one-time website build fee for one cabinet-making business it selects to work with. Availability depends on campaign capacity, local fit, and whether a selection has already been made.

Section 9 — Final CTA

Purpose

End with a simple invitation that repeats the free-demo promise without reopening every objection.

Custom Cabinet Maker Websites That Generate Design + Quote Requests | Graylock Digital

Meta description

Graylock builds custom cabinet-maker websites that showcase premium work, improve local visibility, and turn project interest into design consultations and quote requests. Request a free custom homepage demo.

H1

Your Cabinets Are Custom. Your Website Should Be Too.

Canonical

<https://graylockdigital.com/websites-for-cabinet-makers>

Schema

Use WebPage and Service schema for Graylock' s service. Add FAQPage schema only for the FAQ questions visibly present on this page. Do not use review/testimonial schema until there is a genuine approved testimonial with correct attribution.

Responsive rules

Section	Desktop	Mobile
Hero	Text left, device visual right; CTA above the fold.	Text first, device visual below; proof items in a two-by-two grid.
Who We Work With	Three equal cards.	Stack cards with 24–28px vertical spacing.
Goals background	Three cards over image-backed band.	Retain background mask; stack Goal 1 → 2 → 3.
Features	Device/image plus feature list.	Show image first or after intro; stack feature items.
Process	Four equal image cards.	Four stacked cards; maintain image aspect ratio.
Portfolio proof	Project image plus text.	Text, device, then project tiles.
Pricing	Content and badges centered.	Full-width primary CTA; no fine print below 14px.

Add a single mobile sticky CTA: REQUEST MY FREE CUSTOM DEMO. Do not expose multiple competing mobile actions.

Accessibility and QA requirements

- No essential text may wait for a scroll-trigger animation to become visible.
- Test every image-backed section for readable text over the applied mask at desktop, tablet, mobile, and reduced-motion states.
- Body copy must not drop below 16px on mobile. CTA buttons must be at least 48px tall.
- Alt text must describe the actual image purpose. Example: "Custom walnut kitchen cabinetry shown in a Graylock cabinet-maker website project gallery."

- Replace all asset placeholders with the actual approved project/device files once supplied. Do not launch with placeholder text visible.

6. Replit Build Order

Priority	Work	Definition of done
P0	Add route, hero, all cabinet-maker copy, CTA tracking, and form prefill	The page works as a clear industry-specific landing page with no generic contractor copy.
P0	Build the Who We Work With, Three Goals, and What We Do sections	A cabinet maker can identify the problem, understand the promise, and see concrete website value quickly.
P1	Build the four-step free-demo process and pricing / guarantee block	The free custom-demo offer and build-fee-waiver structure are clear without repetitive copy.
P1	Add temporary proof section and asset placeholders	The page is ready to swap in the approved cabinet-maker case study without a redesign.
P2	Add FAQs, final CTA, SEO, schema, analytics, mobile sticky CTA, and QA refinements	The page is conversion-ready, accessible, responsive, and measurable.

7. Assets Graylock Will Provide Before Final Launch

1. The live or staging URL for the featured cabinet-maker client website.
2. Desktop and mobile screenshots, or approval to use the live site in the device mockup.
3. The client name, location, service categories, and approved public project description.
4. Any approved project photography and permission to display it.
5. A genuine client testimonial, if available, including name, business, role, and approval to publish.
