

Conversion Audit: Graylock Digital Home Builder Funnel

Executive Summary

I have completed a full conversion audit of the live page at <https://graylockdigital.com/home-builders>. Overall, Replit has done a solid job building a clean, mobile-first page that adheres to several core Russell Brunson principles (no exit ramps, strong visual contrast, clear urgency).

However, before you spend any budget on Google Ads, there are several critical missing elements and copy errors that will severely depress your conversion rate if left unfixed. Most notably, the pricing structure is entirely absent, and the scheduling mechanism adds unnecessary friction.

Below is the prioritized list of fixes you need to hand back to Replit.

Priority 1: Critical Conversion Blockers (Fix Before Launch)

These issues will actively cost you leads and waste your ad spend.

1. Missing Pricing Section

As you correctly flagged, there is no mention of the ongoing monthly cost. The page heavily promotes the “99*BuildFee*” (waived from 999), but without the context of the monthly subscription, visitors will be highly skeptical. The Fix: Replit must add a clear pricing section immediately above the booking form. It should display your three tiers:

- Starter: $199/mo
- Growth: $299/mo (Highlight as “Most Popular”)

- Scale: 449/mo * All tiers should clearly state : "999 Setup Fee Waived for May — Pay Only $99 to Start."*

2. Friction in the Booking Process

The current page uses a custom form where visitors request a demo and wait “1 business day” for confirmation. This violates the principle of striking while the iron is hot. The Fix: Replace the custom form entirely with a direct Calendly (or Cal.com) embed. When a high-intent home builder is ready to book, they should be able to select a time and confirm instantly.

3. Wrong Target Audience in Page Metadata

The HTML title tag currently reads: "Custom Websites for Private Practices | Graylock Digital". The Fix: This must be changed immediately to "Custom Websites for Home Builders | Graylock Digital". Running ads for “home builders” to a page titled “Private Practices” will tank your Google Ads Quality Score and increase your Cost Per Click.

4. Third-Person Copy in the Problem Section

In the “Why Their Current Website Is Costing Them Jobs” section, the copy refers to the builder in the third person (“They build million-dollar homes...”). The Fix: Change all instances of “They/Their” to “You/Your” to speak directly to the prospect.

- Example: “You build million-dollar homes, but your website makes you look like a budget contractor.”

Priority 2: Trust & Authority Builders (Add Soon)

These elements are not strictly required for a bare-bones launch, but adding them will significantly increase your conversion rate.

1. The Indoctrination Video

We produced a great 73-second video of Tim explaining the value proposition. It is currently missing from the page. The Fix: Embed the video high on the page, either directly below the hero section or right next to the booking calendar. Video builds parasocial trust faster than any text.

2. Social Proof / Testimonials

Currently, the page has no reviews or client logos. The Fix: Since you are entering a new niche, you may not have home builder testimonials yet. However, you should add general Graylock reviews regarding your speed, professionalism, and design quality.

3. FAQ Section

A core Russell Brunson principle is to address every objection before the prospect can think it. The Fix: Add an accordion FAQ section at the bottom of the page addressing:

- Do I own the website?
 - What happens if I don't like the demo?
 - Am I locked into a contract?

What Is Working Well

Replit successfully implemented several key conversion drivers:

- The Sticky Urgency Banner: The orange bar at the top keeps the May deadline top-of-mind without being annoying.
- No Navigation Links: The page is a true funnel. There are no links to an “About Us” or “Blog” page to distract the visitor.
- The Before/After Visuals: The side-by-side comparison of the generic Alder Ridge site versus the custom Graylock site is excellent. It proves your value visually.
- The 5-Step Process Section: This was a great addition by Replit. It clearly maps out the engagement, reducing the perceived risk for the buyer.

Next Steps

I recommend sending this exact document to Replit so they can implement the Priority 1 fixes immediately. Once the pricing is added, the Calendly embed is live, and the metadata is corrected, you will be ready to turn on the Google Ads campaigns.
